

Used GRASP design patterns:

- Controller: Register controls the overall system activity
- Indirection: Register delegates the responsibility to Sale
- Information expert: Sale, SalesLineItem and Product Specification own the information for completing the use cases
- Coupling and Cohesion remain unchanged because the design does not introduce additional dependencies (Low Coupling) and each component performs actions only in its lexical domain (high Cohesion) and are strongly connected.